Rose Theatre Questions

• Where is the best place to sit for the performances?

No matter where you sit or stand in the Theatre you will be no more than 15 metres from the stage. So, wherever you choose you'll be close to the action.

Will I be able to see all aspects of the play from the Groundling area?

The groundlings area is standing only and you may stand anywhere in the yard within the Groundling area. You are welcome to move around to gain the best possible advantage for your height. The height of the stage is approximately 1.5m.

Can I bring my own chair into the Groundlings area?

No, due to health and safety reasons, external chairs are not permitted in the Groundlings area as this is a standing area.

Is there parking next to the event/where is the nearest car park?

Parking for The Shakespeare Rose Theatre is free. There is an on-site car park at Blenheim Palace which is situated within a few minutes stroll from the Theatre.

What if I'm running late? What time do the gates close?

We recommend arriving at least 10 minutes before the performance to reach your seats in time. If you are running late, the Theatre allows all latecomers with a valid ticket even after the show has started.

• Can I leave/return during the performance if I need to?

Yes, Shakespeare's Rose Theatre operates an open-door policy that means all audience members can exit and re-enter the space as required. Due to the interactive nature of the performances it may be necessary to block certain accesses briefly during the play. Please keep your ticket until the end of the performance in case we need to scan you in and out of the Theatre.

Is the Theatre air conditioned or heated?

The Theatre is open air so the temperature is dependent on the weather. Please dress accordingly.
